Owners Vote on Navajo Plant Lease

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Rather than close the plant as previously feared, the utility owners of Navajo Generating Station (NGS) voted to extend operations for another 10 years, continuing employment for 700 workers and $60 million in annual revenues for the Navajo Nation and the Hopi Tribe.

This measure would provide jobs and revenue to the plant, beyond 2019 should the lease not be renewed. This was the first time the utility owners of NGS voted to extend operations since the plant was shut down for maintenance in 2014.

The four utility owners are Arizona Public Service Co., NV Energy, and two electric cooperatives that can't agree on a deal for the plant to stay open.

The Hopi Tribe, led by its chairman, held a forum last month on the future of the plant, where a majority of tribe members said they want the plant closed. But the tribe's attorney said the tribe couldn't bring itself to support terminating the lease, which is set to expire at the end of its lease in 2019.

The Hopi Tribe, in agreement with its sister tribe, the Navajo Nation, said termination of the lease would be for the good of the community.

The Hopi Tribe, which owns 25% of the plant, has no direct financial interest in its operation. The Hopi Tribe's stated goal is to protect and promote Hopi interests in a responsible and sustainable manner. Currently, the plant is being maintained and operated as a hydroelectric facility, using natural gas to generate power.

The Hopi Tribe has also said it will work with the Navajo Nation to ensure that any termination of the lease is done in a manner that protects Hopi interests and the environment.

Bears Ears National Monument must endure

The past few years have been tough for our Tribes (Hopi, Navajo, Ute Mountain Ute, and Zuni), which are formally joined in a union of sovereign entities as the Bears Ears Inter-Tribal Coalition. President Trump’s insufficiently informed decision to proclaim a presidential memorandum to proceed with the Dakota Access pipeline over the objections of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe disregards treaty rights and threatens tribal sovereignty, and we pray that it is not a sign of things to come for Utah.

Utah’s GOP Congressional delegation, State Legislators, and Governors are threatening our sovereignty as well by calling upon the president to undo us— our ancient lands. The Bears Ears Cultural Landscape, which bears the signs of our habitation, migration, and care for countless generations is vital to all of us. The state of Utah represents one sovereign tribe in this Union, and the Obama administration honored our States and Navajo tribes.

The future of Bears Ears is not a sign of things to come for Utah.

The many tribally held lands in Utah represent one sovereign tribe in this Union, and the Obama administration honored our states and Native American tribes.

BYLAWS OF THE HOPI TUTUVENI EDITORIAL BOARD

ARTICLE I - BOARD Composition

Section 1.01: Membership. The Editorial Board shall consist of no fewer than three (3) and no more than seven (7) members. Pursuant of Hopi Tribe Council Resolution 0-11, 2010, three members will be appointed, respectively, by the Tribal Chairman, the Tribal Council, and any other persons shall be elected by the Editorial Board and Managing Editor. On the death, resignation, or removal of any member, the Editorial Board shall elect a successor within 60 days to fill the vacancy so created.

Section 1.02: Term of Appointment. Board members shall serve an initial term of three (3) years.

Section 1.03: Term of Office. A member may be removed from office at any time by giving written notice of such removal to the Editorial Board and Managing Editor. Unless otherwise specified in such notice, resignation shall be effective upon receipt by the Editorial Board and Managing Editor.

Section 1.04: Removable. Any member of the Editorial Board may be removed for just cause by action of a majority of the Editorial Board. Just cause may include violation of any fiduciary duty, act of fraud, act of embezzlement, gross neglect of duty, a conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, or a finding of moral turpitude.

Section 1.05: Filling of Vacancies. Vacancies on the Board, whether caused by resignation, removal, death or otherwise, shall be filled without undue delay and the nominee shall be appointed with the procedures established for filling a vacancy.

ARTICLE II - POWER AND DUTIES OF THE BOARD

Section 1.06: Compensation of Board Members. Members will be paid per diem and travel expenses, if any, and a fixed sum for attendance at each meeting of the Editorial Board, including annual and mid-year meetings.

Section 2.01: Duties of the Board. Board members shall act as a policy-making body and shall make decisions affecting the business of the Editorial Board.

Section 2.02: Conflict of Interest. Board members have a fiduciary duty to uphold the interest and integrity of the Hopi Tribe. In fulfilling their responsibilities to the Hopi Tribe, members of the Editorial Board shall act within the scope of their authority and in accordance with the standards of conduct prescribed by the Tribal Code. A statement of notice shall appear in each issue of the Hopi Tribe that the Board reserves the right to edit or decline to publish any content.

ARTICLE III - MEETINGS OF THE EDITORIAL BOARD

Section 3.01: Monthly Board Meetings. The Editorial Board shall meet monthly, either in person or via teleconference or webinar at a time agreed upon by the Board. Members may participate in a meeting of the Board by phone or video conference if they are unable to attend in person. The Board may also meet by teleconference or webinar if the Chair so directs.

Section 3.02: Annual and mid-year Meetings. The Editorial Board shall meet in person twice a year for an annual and mid-year meeting. The annual meeting will take place on the first Monday in May in the year following the conclusion of the editorial year. The mid-year meeting will be held at such time and place as the Board may determine. The Chair or his designee shall call the meeting.

Section 3.03: Special Meetings. Special Meetings of the Editorial Board may be called by any two members. Special meetings shall require 7 business days written notice stating the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called.

Section 3.04: Quorum. At all meetings of the Editorial Board, the presence of a simple majority of confirmed members shall constitute a quorum of the Board.

Section 3.05: Voting. All actions of the Editorial Board shall be determined by a majority vote of the members present and participating in the decision or the matter.

ARTICLE IV - Amendments

Section 4.01: Amendment of By-laws. The By-laws may be amended from time to time by action of a majority of the Editorial Board.

ARTICLE V - Amendments

It was a beautiful day on February 9 when the Hopi Tribal Housing Authority (HTHA) held a Ribbon Cutting Ceremony to celebrate the completion of the Nineteen Scattered Sites Homeownership Project. The Ceremony was held in Polacca, Ariz. at the new home of Kimberly Silas.

Several community members were in attendance to help celebrate the event. The Silas family were among the first four homeowners who were presented with keys to their new home. These families will get to move into their homes immediately. “The goal is to get everyone moved into their homes by the end of March, 2017,” said Stan Pahe, HTHA Superintendent.

“Since this has been two years in waiting until they could move in,” Kimberly Silas was thrilled and said she couldn’t wait to move in. She and husband Shawn, walked through their home with happiness, knowing they finally had their own home and were beginning the process of moving in.

Each Homeowner was presented with a “Home Sweet Home” plaque to hang in their new home. After that, a lunch was served for all attendees, hosted by the HTHA staff. The following are the 19 homeowners:

Dewayne Quochytewa
Wilber Kaye
Jennie Talahongva
Felicia Yaiva
Milldred Youvella
Jeri Marie Bia
Sandy Whitehair
Gina Begay
Brooke Bia
Desta H奇迹
Fermina Tewa
Vonette Monongye
Rolanda Yoyletstewa
Charles Mahkewa
Eldon Kalemsa Jr.
Albertina Russell
Shelly Qumawunu
Melissa Wendalschafer
Dianne Jemez

The ceremony began with HTHA Executive Director welcoming everyone to the event and introducing all those involved in making the project possible.

Sandy Whitehair, HTHA Board Member gave an emotional speech about what it means to have a place to call “home.” As a home is all family.

Ekinon Kolinam is also an HTHA Board Member said, “We made possible with the help of everyone, Community, HTHA staff, Lawyers, and Contractors.”

Through the ASU Tribal Nations Tour, Poleviyuma said she was able to share her ideas about how peo- ple can further their community by furthering their education with students in schools with higher Native American populations. According to the Trib- al Nations Tour website, it brings college students to schools that share their stories to encourage the younger population in pur- sue higher education.

“We all have a responsibility to either our families or our communities,” Poleviyuma said.

Poleviyuma said when she was growing up in her community she was taught the importance of individ- uals because to raise her everyone had to work to- gether.

“She showed me how ev- ery person is valuable be- cause they put so much work into everyone,” she said.

Poleviyuma was selected for the award she received with one of the nominators being Bryan Brayboy, president of the Native American Indian Affairs. Brayboy said Poleviyuma offered fresh perspectives to the studies put on by the Center for Indigenous Education. Brayboy also said Poleviyuma’s job as re- search and analysis means that she does a lot of background research and analyzes literature for the studies, and he often uses her as a sounding board for ideas and thoughts.

“She’s a talented person who is able to step outside of the box. She always has her eye on the bigger picture,” Brayboy said Poleviyuma has a passion for the work she does. “It showed me how ev- ery person is valuable because they put so much work into everyone,” she said.

Poleviyuma talked about the world in a dif- ferent way than most peo- ple because of her major and her experiences.

“She always has her eye on the bigger picture,” Solyom said.

Poleviyuma was also the secretary of Native Americans for Academics, Success and Uni- versity during the club’s first year on campus. This club focused on building a community for Native Americans on downtown campus and to show that Native Americans are on campus by promoting their community and culture.

“The club was very, very important to the suc- cess of the club,” Solyom said.

“She was dedicated and passionate about it and I think that’s what we really needed for a solid foun- dation for NAASU,” Brayboy said.

Solyom said that Poleviyuma said she believes it is important to step up when the opportunity arises, also to be humble and able to step aside if there is someone better equipped to work on the issue. However, she is not waiting for graduation in order to start making a differ- ence.

“You can make changes where you are right now,” Poleviyuma said.

The Hopi Environmental Health Project

STUDY INFORMATION

The Hopi Tribe is collaborating with professors from the University of Arizona, to evaluate the environment inside Hopi homes on several health conditions. This Project will help programs at the Hopi Department of Community Health Services and the Hopi Environmental Protection Office to identify health and environmental issues facing the Hopi.

Household exposures found in the air, water, and food are major sources of environmental hazards for many communities. These exposures or hazards, along with factors such as unemployment, poor access to preventive programs and health services, can affect human health including respiratory and cardiovascular health, diabetes, cancer, and obesity. You may have heard that a recent survey suggests 24% of Hopi have asthma, which is high compared to national averages.

The goal is to recruit people from 90 Hopi homes over a 3 year period. The household exposures found in the air, water, and food are major sources of environmental hazards for many communities. These exposures or hazards, along with factors such as unemployment, poor access to preventive programs and health services, can affect human health including respiratory and cardiovascular health, diabetes, cancer, and obesity. You may have heard that a recent survey suggests 24% of Hopi have asthma, which is high compared to national averages.

The project requires equipment be placed at your home to measure the quality of the air during both the winter and summer seasons. Some of this equipment will need to stay in your home for at least 24 hours. This means that there will be 4 visits to your home over the next 12 months. The project will involve 4 to 5 hours of your time over 2-3 days in winter and then again in summer. A description and pictures of the equipment to be used in this study is available.

You will receive reports from the project about your home and personal tests.

You may choose to participate in the project at any time.

You will be compensated $100 per month for participation after the winter and summer sampling visits.

This Project is funded by the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences and the US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). It has received approval from the Hopi Tribal Council.
