In response to protests over the killing of George Floyd by Minneapolis police, Arizona Governor Doug Ducey yesterday declared a state of emergency;

A nightly 8pm to 5am curfew will last all week;

The Hopi Tribe's General Counsel Fred Lomayesva issued the following statement in response, quote:

"I have reviewed the Governor's Declaration of Emergency, Imposition of Curfew.

Applicability of the Governor's Order:

The Governor's Order does not apply to members of the Hopi Tribe on the Hopi Reservation. However, if you are Hopi and off the Reservation, the curfew will apply to you.

Exceptions:

There are important exceptions to the Governor's Order. If you are buying groceries in town, it will not apply to you when you travel directly to the store or home. If you are traveling to or from caring for a family member, friend or animal, it will not apply."

Floyd, a 46-year-old black Minnesota man, died after bystander videos showed a Minneapolis police officer pressed his knee into Floyd's neck for more than eight minutes.

In addition, Flagstaff's Vice Mayor Adam Shimoni stated, quote:

"Traveling between any two locations within Arizona is not prohibited by the Governor's recent Executive Order. This includes members traveling to and from Flagstaff back to Hopi"

Hopi Tribal Woman Member from Tewa Village Beats COVID-19

Romalita Laban, Managing Editor

Polacca, Ariz. – Sunday, May 31, 2020, after just over a couple weeks of learning that Jacqueline Nahee, an enrolled member of the Hopi Tribe, had recovered from and beat Covid-19, as Managing Editor of the Hopi Tutuveni, I reached out to Nahee.

I connected to Nahee and shared that I recently received results from the CVOD-19 test I took at the Hopi Health Care Center – IHS (HHCC- IHS) and that I tested negative for COVID-19. She knew I have also been following her progress on social media. Since she shared on May 9, 2020 on social media about receiving a positive test result and what she experienced in her recovery from the deadly virus, I have been looking forward to learning of her rebound.

I requested permission to share her May 9, 2020 social media post on Facebook. On the post Jacqueline, known as G-O to family and friends, reference her ordeal of testing positive for COVID-19, the symptoms she experienced and then eventually recovering.

Since she already made the information public, it made asking to share her story much easier. In fact, she replied, “First of all I’m so happy with your negative result. You are more than welcome to share my story. I’m always willing to help in some way. Keep running those hills, I believe running is medicine.”

Another reason, I reached out to her is due to not seeing or reading about Hopi Tribal members who have recovered during this pandemic. Although we have been informed about the COVID-19 data regarding Hopi Tribal members being tested at HHCC-IHS, the number of positives, negatives and those still pending, and some data for some Hopi Villages, there hasn’t been any reporting about how many of those with the positive cases have recovered.

Jacqueline Nahee comes from Tewa Village, originally known as Hanoki, located on First Mesa, and is an enrolled member of the Hopi Tribe. First Mesa is one of three mesas located on the easterly end of the Hopi reservation, which has three Hopi villages located “on top.” The Hopi Tribe’s Department of Health and Human Services (HDHHS) is currently describing First Mesa villages as “Polacca Walpi-Sitsom’ovi-Tewa” when listing data about Hopi tribal members from those villages however it is not distinguishing data for each village in particular.

It is important to note that Nahee was not tested at the HHCC-IHS, so her particular case would not be included in what HHCC-IHS is reporting to the Hopi Tribe. It remains unclear whether her case would be included in what the HDHHS – Hopi Tribe reports, either. At this point, contact has not been made to either organization to confirm, however, due to HIPPA laws, I don’t believe either organization would share that information with Hopi Tutuveni anyway.

All that aside, I thought it would be a positive step towards informing and educating the Hopi Tutuveni readers about how other Hopi Tribal members have found the courage, not only to get tested but to share their experience, as well. This allows for others to have something to relate to and can know and believe that recovery is happening for our very own people. It is hopeful to know that those testing positive do recover and are not just a number in all the COVID-19 data being shared.

Nahee is an avid marathon runner and has completed the Boston Marathon in the recent past. She comes from a family of strong runners. Jackie currently lives and works in Winslow, Ariz. for the project SNTEPP, which stands for Southwest Navajo Tobacco Education Prevention Program and is funded by the Black Hills Center for American Indian Health (BHCAIH) and according to the BHCAIH, the mission of SNTEPP is: “The Southwest Navajo Tobacco Education Prevention Project’s primary goal is to improve the health of Navajo people living on the Navajo Nation with a primary focus on children through commercial tobacco prevention, cessation, and policies, while respecting traditional practices and ceremonies associated with tobacco use.” The program involves educating the young about smoking, training and prevention initiatives. Jackie has worked in the past for the Hopi Tribe under direct leadership of Hopi Tribal Chairman Wayne Taylor, Jr., as well.

With a few minor edits to give context for readers, below are Jacqueline’s posts:

Posted - May 9, 2020 12:46 p.m. “Good afternoon! I am thankful for another beautiful day. Now that I have informed my mom, I feel it’s time to let you all know that a couple weeks ago I tested positive for Covid-19. I was Asymptomatic with only a headache which started about 3 weeks ago [approximately April 18th.] I let my guard down. A few days later, the person I was exposed to, tested positive for the virus. Once I was informed, I went to the clinic, but couldn’t be tested due to [no] symptoms. However, I knew I had it. Finally, two weeks from tomorrow [around April 26th] I went back to the clinic and insisted that I be tested although I still had no symptoms. Two days later I was informed that I was positive for the virus. One good thing was that I was already practicing social distancing and wearing a mask, so I knew I didn’t infect anyone. I was still able to go on my runs to check my breathing and if I came across someone, I’d move to the other side of the road to keep my distance. I had my bad days and late nights where I would get this feeling of being in a daze or light headed. I called it that “ugly feeling.” When I did get that ugly feeling, I would go walk or jog regardless of what time of the day it was, at night I would clean. It’s been almost a week now where I have not felt that ugly feeling. I was retested yesterday and awaiting the results. I just want to express how important it is to exercise, because I strongly believe that it got me through this, take your vitamins and know your body. Walking, running, biking, leg lifts, lifting, etc. anything to move your body. I’m not seeking sympathy but awareness that this virus is for real and should be taken seriously. I am fortunate that I have such great friends Vanessa Kvien, Emily Kewanimptewa and Terri Little who brought me groceries, dinner, support, also, my loving sisters for checking on me every day. And my boss Dr. Patricia Nez Henderson who [help] me with controlling my emotions and being there all hours of the day and night, when I needed to talk. Mom has been through so much so I kept it from her. With that said, please be careful, stay home, wash your hands, no visitors, wear your mask, no hugs, but stay in touch with loved ones via phone, internet. I thought sharing my story will help in some way. I love you all.”

Posted - May 15 at 6:08 p.m. “Good Evening! Today I got retested...Negative! I beat Covid-19. Thank you for your prayers, please continue to pray for all those who have this awful virus. Again, I would like to emphasize the importance of social distancing, wearing your mask, washing your hands and staying home. Love you all.”

Nahee has continued running throughout her illness and is still going strong and ran 13.1 miles on the day the article was being written. Hopi Tutuveni appreciates Jacqueline Nahee’s willingness to share her story and wishes her continued good health now and throughout her life. For all those being impacted by COVID-19, we send positives and a quick and speedy recovery from the illness and/or any losses experienced from the contagious virus. Stay hopeful, be safe, be well and wash your hands. – Uma nahongvitotani.

UPDATE – Hopi Tribal Council Holds May 21, 2020 Special Meeting and June 1, 2020 Third Quarter Session at Hopi Jr./Sr. High School

Romalita Laban, Managing Editor

Kykotsmovi, Ariz. – Monday, June 1, 2020 Hopi Tutuveni and KUYI Hopi Radio staff were present at the Hopi Jr./Sr. High School once again for the Hopi Tribal Council's Third Quarter Session.

Hopi Chairman Timothy L. Nuvangyaoma called the meeting to order at 10:17 a.m. and presided while Roll Call was completed by Barbara Lomayestewa, Hopi Tribal Secretary Staff Assistant determined that those in the room and those on the telephone and connected via Zoom established a quorum with nineteen (19) present and/or online or connected by phone.

All the First Mesa Consolidated Village (FMCV) Representatives present in the Hopi Bruin's Den which included Albert T. Siquah, Wallace Youvella, Sr., Dale Siquah, and Wallace Youvella, Jr.

Also in the room was Hopi Vice Chairman Clark W. Tenakhongva, Merwin Kooyahoe - Village of Mishongnovi Representative, Rosa Honanie - Village of Sipaulavi Representative, Clifford Qotsaquahu - Village of Bakabi Representative, the Village of Kyakotsmovi Representatives including Phillip Quochytewa, Sr., Danny Honanie and Herman Honanie.

Hopi Tribal Secretary Staff, including Barbara Lomayestewa, Berdella Nasingoetewa and Violet Siquah, Sergeant-At-Arms was also present.

All those present wore face masks and were aligned to allow for proper social distancing in the area and in consideration of CDC guidelines. Hopi Tribal Secretary staff ensured that there was plenty of hand sanitizer, wipes, telephonic equipment, and were set up to conduct Hopi Tribal Council business complete with having laptops and microphones ready for the meeting to occur.

The Agenda was being followed in order by Chairman Nuvangyaoma who asked Vice Chairman Tenakhongva to provide the Invocation and proceeded to add his own words after Vice Chairman spoke.

Preliminary and usual business included on the Agenda was addressed with a few fluctuations in the order of Agenda sections before Announcements, Minutes and Calendar Planning sections were addressed.

During the Announcement Section, Robert Charley, Village of Upper Moenkopi Representative who was calling in on the phone, made an announcement to the Council that the Hopi Tribal Housing Authority was entertaining a resolution from FMCV for a project, which he referred to as "kind of unusual and unorthodox" before continuing to announce that FMCV wants to build with the help of a consultant, a dialysis center and "10-unit housing" for Coronavirus patients. Charley also mentioned, "Just let the people be aware of it, even if they say it is shovel-ready, have to meet with all the landowners..."

Chairman Nuvangyaoma proceeded to announce he was moving onto "Number 8 Minutes" to which he announced the Secretary indicated no minutes were available for approval before realizing he skipped over the Correspondence section of the agenda and proceeded by asking Barbara Lomayestewa, Secretary Staff to read all correspondence into record.

There were five items read into record which included three letters and couple of memorandums. The letters included those from First Mesa Kikmongwi regarding meeting with the Chairman, a letter from the Village of Shungopavi to the Chairman and a letter from Chairman Nuvangyaoma to the Council regarding meeting with CDC officials. The letter from the Village of Shungopavi was not fully read into record by Secretary staff as it was described as being addressed to the Chairman and not necessarily the Council.

After discussion surrounding Committee meetings and dates, Committee Chairpersons were asked to submit Committee meeting dates, via email, to the Secretary's office for dissemination as part of the Calendar Planning section of business.

After some going back and forth with Representatives on the phone lines and with some inaudible remarks, Chairman Nuvangyaoma reminded Council that his goal was to get through the preliminary business of opening up the Third Quarter Session and getting the Agenda approved.

With the reminder from the Chairman spoken, Wallace Youvella, Sr., FMCV Representative then made a motion to approve the Agenda with the addition of the "CDC letter from the Chairman and letter from First Mesa Kikmongwi." Albert T. Siquah, FMCV Representative announced a second to the motion. The motion was put to a vote and it passed with no opposing or abstention votes.

The Chairman then went into announcing he would be recessing the meeting until Monday, June 8th at 10:00 a.m. and that another area is being proposed at the Tribal Chambers. He also mentioned that others are working on technical difficulties there and are yet to be determined.

Before the Chairman could continue, Albert T. Siquah, FMCV Representative then proceeded to make a motion to recess until 9 a.m. and mentioned he didn't think the Chairman can recess before the Chairman mentioned, "It is normally up to the discretion of the Chairman, so going ahead and recessing at 11:09."

Some of the “Briefs to Council” were addressed by having some individuals present via Zoom and phone while others were allowed to submit written Briefs to Council.

Hopi Tutuveni has been prepared to cover any Hopi Tribal Council meetings to provide updates to readers on actions being taken by Tribal Council. However, attempts by the Hopi Tribal Secretary’s Office to hold Tribal Council meetings have failed until recently with the Special Meeting session and the Third Quarter session being held at the HJSHS Bruin’s Den and mostly due to the Hopi Tribal government phone system and technical issues with teleconference lines. The following is a list of dates on which Hopi Tribal Council attempted to meet and reasons for meetings not occurring:

Tuesday, April 28, 2020 – Hopi Tribe phone system down due to hardware issues.

Friday, May 8, 2020 9:00 a.m. – Hopi Tribe phone system technical difficulties apparently due to “getting a hit” during a recent rain storm and according to Chairman Nuvangyaoma. (Meeting rescheduled to Monday, May 11, 2020)

Monday, May 11, 2020 9:00 a.m. - Phone system technical difficulties. (Meeting rescheduled to Thursday, May 21, 2020)

Hopi Tutuveni attended a meeting on Monday, May 18,

2020 at the Hopi Jr./Sr. High School where some Hopi Tribal Council representatives, Hopi Tribal Secretary staff, Hopi Chairman Nuvangyaoma and Hopi Vice Chairman Tenakhongva all joined to do a test run of holding a Council meeting in the Hopi Bruins Den – Cafeteria while meeting social distancing requirements, as much as possible.

HJSHS technology staff, KUYI Hopi Radio staff and Hopi Tutuveni were also in attendance making sure all the technical aspects were covered and to cover the progress being made to ensure Hopi Tribal Council had internet and email access, the phone system was accessible and any Tribal Council representatives choosing to dial-in or log into a Zoom type meeting could do so, as well. The next Hopi Tribal Council meeting scheduled to occur on Thursday, May 21, 2020 at 9:00 a.m. and which the public will be allowed to listen in via KUYI Hopi Radio at 88.1FM did occur.

We will do our best to cover the meeting as well and hope before the meeting occurs, to have received an updated Hopi Tribal Council Agenda for the rescheduled meeting.

Although we would like to keep Hopi Tutuveni readers up to date, informed and educated about issues affecting them, until we receive word from Hopi Tribe’s Management Information Systems and Facilities Department about after hours/weekend access, we cannot promise any updates during any other times.

Until we receive communications about internet, email and Risk Management Building access the Hopi Tutuveni is being seriously impacted in its ability to bring up to date information to Hopi Tutuveni readers and users of the webpage.

While it is critically important that we do our part to prevent and control the spread of the highly contagious COVID-19 virus, the June 3, 2020 publication is scheduled for distribution only to local stores, post offices and areas accessible by the public for food and other essentials during the Stay-at-Home Order for all residents of the Hopi Reservation. In addition, a limited amount of printed copies will be provided to the Shungopavi Security check point staff, to hand out to residents upon entrance to the village and until the supply is depleted.

Hopi Tutuveni office remains closed to the public and in accordance with the Tribal Government shutdown requirements through June 20, 2020. Hopi Tutuveni staff can be reached at 928-734-3281 or 928-401-6435 and e-mails can be sent to rlaban@hopi.nsn.us from 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. Monday – Friday.

Say their names & tell their stories

Associate Press/Staff and wire reports

In Baltimore, protesters shouted the name of Freddie Gray. In Topeka, Kansas, T-shirts were emblazoned with the name of Dominique White. In Tulsa, Oklahoma, people gathered in a spot where white mobs killed hundreds of blacks a century ago and chanted the name of Terence Crutcher.

Across the U.S. as protesters poured into the streets to voice anger about last week's death of George Floyd, they also marked the occasion with reminders that the handcuffed black man who pleaded for air as an officer pinned him to the pavement with his knee on his neck is simply the latest addition to a grim roster.

Their stories have substantial differences, but protesters used their names and faces on posters to drive home the point that Floyd is part of a larger story about the dangers of being black in the United States.

According to data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Native Americans are more likely to be killed by police than any other group, including African Americans, 3.1 times more likely than white Americans.

An investigation by Stephanie Woodward writing In These Times called out so many of the names that need to be said.

"Suquamish Tribe descendant Jeanetta Riley, a 34-year-old mother of four, lay face down on a Sandpoint, Idaho street. One minute earlier, three police officers had arrived, summoned by staff at a nearby hospital. Her husband had sought help there because Riley—homeless, pregnant and with a history of mental illness—was threatening suicide," Woodward wrote. "Drop the knife!" they yelled, advancing, then opened fire. They pumped two shots into her chest and another into her back as she fell to the pavement. Fifteen seconds had elapsed from the time they exited their vehicles."

Woodward's list includes a list of Native men and women who died in police custody and most of their stories are not carried on signs at marches or in media reports.

"On the Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe's reservation in South Dakota, an angry crowd marched on police headquarters after tribal member Phillip High Bear's mother alleged her 33-year-old son was beaten to death there," Woodward wrote about his 2015 death. "Protestors sang, drummed and shouted taunting references to the 1890 shooting death of Lakota spiritual leader Sitting Bull at the hands of Native police officers."

"George Floyd is causing people in their own communities to recall, reflect and then get angry all over again about their own police killings," said Marshall Hatch, a Chicago minister who eulogized Bettie Jones, who was struck by a bullet from an officer responding to a domestic dispute at a neighbor's house that also left 19-year-old Quintonio LeGrier dead in 2015.

Hatch said Floyd's death has served as a reminder to continue to push for justice in deaths throughout the country. He said that on Wednesday, he and other religious leaders plan to gather outside police headquarters to demand the officer who was fired after fatally shooting Jones and LeGrier also face criminal charges.

"There is a lot of feelings of incomplete justice all over the country," he said.

Allisa Findley, whose brother, Botham Jean, was killed in 2018 inside his apartment by a white Dallas police officer who said she mistook his apartment for her own told WFAA television in Dallas, "It is like pouring salt into an open wound every time there is another case."

"Yes, it's a different name, but it's the same situation," Findley said.

In New York, many protesters shouted, "I can't breathe," a reminder that the words Floyd said in his last moments of life echoed what Eric Garner, stopped by police in New York City's Staten Island for allegedly selling untaxed cigarettes, said when a police officer put him in what appeared to be a chokehold in 2014.

One of the first things Chicago Mayor Lori Lightfoot said publicly about Floyd's death was that it brought back to her the pain that the city felt in 2015 when a video of a white police officer shooting black teenager Laquan McDonald was released.

In Oakland, California, protesters gathered at Oscar Grant Plaza, named for the 22-year-old who was pulled by police from a Bay Area Rapid Transit train early on New Year's Day 2009 and killed in one of the first police shootings captured on video by bystanders.

Grant's mother, Wanda Johnson, could not help but think of her son when she saw a bystander's video of Floyd's final moments.

"It brought back so many memories of them trying to demonize him, then trying to have other officers there and none trying to control the situation," Johnson told KRON-TV in the Bay Area.

In Baltimore, it was impossible not to think of what happened in 2015 — from the death of 25-year-old Freddie Gray after he suffered major spinal injuries while being transported in a police van to the unrest that followed.

"It was a stark reminder of our own city's trauma," Baltimore Mayor Bernard C. "Jack" Young told the Baltimore Sun.

While Gray's name has remained part of the national conversation about police treatment of blacks, what has been striking is that demonstrations in every corner of the country tell their own piece of a larger story.

Terence Crutcher was fatally shot in 2016 by a white police officer, Betty Shelby, who was later acquitted of manslaughter.

"If you all could just scream at the top of your lungs and let Terence know that you still care, that you haven't forgotten," his twin sister, Tiffany Crutcher, told a Tulsa crowd.

Michael Ramos, described by friends and family as black and Hispanic, was fatally shot by Austin, Texas, police in April as the 42-year-old drove away from officers after first being shot with a beanbag. The shooting remains under investigation, and Ramos' mom, Brenda Ramos, questioned why the officer who shot him hasn't been arrested or at least suspended.

"Now I am in this terrible heartbreaking club," Ramos' mom, Brenda Ramos, told reporters over the weekend. "It's a club of mothers of black Americans who have been murdered by police."

On Monday in Phoenix a state trooper saw a 28-year-old man, Dion Johnson, passed out in the vehicle on a freeway. The trooper shot and killed Johnson, reporting a struggle.

In Topeka, protests included the shouts of, "Say his name! Dominique White." The 30-year-old Topeka man was armed when officers, responding to a report of gunfire, confronted him and fatally shot him in 2017. While an internal police investigation found the officers followed department policies, protesters still have questions, as do relatives who have filed a lawsuit.

In New York, Gov. Andrew Cuomo posted a slide with the names of many black men killed or abused by police in cities around the nation.

"You are blind, or in denial, if you are still treating each one like a unique situation," he said at his Saturday morning press briefing. "How many times have we seen the same situation?"

"Yes, the names change. But the color doesn't."

Office of Representative Debra Haaland (D-NM-01)

Yesterday, Representatives Sharice Dauids (KS-03) and Deb Haaland (NM-01), the first two Native American women to serve in Congress, released the following statement in solidarity with the Black community:

“We share in the heartbreak and pain felt by millions across the country in response to the killing of George Floyd, as well as the countless other Black Americans who have died at the hands of brutality and injustice in this country. We mourn for the lives lost, for the families grieving, and for every person who has been affected by the systemic, pervasive injustices across the United States.

“The pain our country feels is rooted in generations of institutional racism. We recognize that the anger in our communities is a sincere and justifiable reaction to the long-standing failure to reform those institutions—especially our criminal justice system. Even amid a global pandemic that is disproportionality impacting people of color, the circumstances are too much for many to bear silently or alone.

“It is inspiring to see people come together to stand up for each other and demand justice. At the same time, a very small minority are compounding this pain by resorting to further violence and destruction. As President Obama said today, ‘If we want our criminal justice system, and American society at large, to operate on a higher ethical code, then we have to model that code ourselves.’

“Though we will never know the experience of being Black in America, we know that Indian Country stands in solidarity with our Black brothers and sisters — committed to fighting for justice and channeling our frustration into meaningful action and change. Together we can build a more equitable and just society — one that lives up to the ideals we expect of our nation.”

Arizona Gov. Doug Ducey declares state of emergency, issues curfew to last all week

By Staff/Cronkite News

PHOENIX – Arizona Gov. Doug Ducey has issued a statewide declaration of emergency, setting a curfew starting at 8 p.m. Sunday and lasting each night for one week.

Ducey said local leaders made the request. “This gives law enforcement an additional tool to prevent the lawlessness we’ve seen here and in cities nationwide,” according to a Sunday afternoon tweet. “Police will be equipped to make arrests of individuals who are planning to riot, loot or cause damage and unrest.”

Ducey also announced that the Arizona National Guard will mobilize to “protect life and property” throughout the state.

The daily curfew will last until 5 a.m. Those exempt include public safety and medical personnel, individuals traveling to and from work and people patronizing or operating private businesses, according to the declaration.

It also states that “during the hours of curfew, all persons are prohibited from using, standing, sitting, traveling or being present on any public street or in any public place.”

Protests in Arizona turned violent this weekend.

On Saturday evening, Scottsdale police declared an unlawful assembly after protesters began damaging businesses near Scottsdale Fashion Square.

Officers arrested 12 people, and the department said protesters caused “millions of dollars in damages and theft,” according to The Arizona Republic.

On Saturday, Phoenix police officials had warned protesters they would take swift action if demonstrations turned criminal. The Saturday news conference came after a night of destruction in downtown Phoenix Friday night.

Despite the warnings, protesters began damaging property and setting fires late in the evening. Phoenix police arrested 114 people on suspicion of rioting and unlawful assembly, according to The Arizona Republic.

The death of George Floyd has sparked mass protests nationwide. Floyd, a 46-year-old black man, died after bystander videos showed a Minneapolis police officer pressed his knee into Floyd’s neck for more than eight minutes.

In his Twitter statement, Ducey said he had been contacting mayors across Arizona “to ensure they have proactive plans to prevent looting and violence in their cities tonight and in days to come. This is why we sought public office. It’s time for leadership, vigilance and action.”

Social media users reacted with mixed emotions. Some thanked the government. User Mike Burris replied to Ducey’s announcement with this: “Arizona will stand together for equal treatment of all races, but we won’t stand for our city to be destroyed!”

However, some users asked for more details – such as whether the declaration affects essential workers. Those details weren’t available early Sunday afternoon.

And some users expressed their frustration. Devora Locke tweeted, “For the first time since 1968 I feel compelled to get out on the streets myself and protest. It’s not just the lawbreakers that this curfew affects, it is everyone with a voice that needs to be heard.”

Ducey’s office released a statement on Sunday, saying “destruction of property does not qualify as freedom of expression,” but vowing that leaders will listen.

“The death of George Floyd is tragic and abhorrent. It should be condemned by leaders at all levels - and we should listen to those who seek to have a civil dialogue on how to ensure it never happens again,” according to the statement.

The Hopi Tutuveni

Here on the Hopi reservation we encountered a sickness before. I'm pretty sure it was smallpox but that was about 100 years ago, I think? Our elders have stories from their childhood when they were told by their grandparents that a great sickness had struck the Hopi mesas and that they didn't know what to do or what this sickness was. People started to die faster than they could bury them. In one village they started to just throw the dead in a side cave off the mesa, because they couldn't bury them fast enough. Also, in another village, they made a house for the sick and when a person felt sick, they would go there to die. I'm pretty sure the house is still there and maybe contains the remains of the sick from a long time ago but that's just my guess. And I'm pretty sure Hopi history or language class never told that sad truth about Hopi's past and possibly because it is taboo to talk about death in the Hopi culture. Hopi is about life so we tend to focus on the happiness of living the Hopi culture and it could be a good thing to only remember the past as a happy event. I believe though that we must also learn from the past, like that of what Hopi encountered with smallpox, so we don't encounter great loss like that again.

So, in my mind and thoughts, history is trying to repeat itself. Although, the Hopi people have become smarter to save the Hopi people and to preserve our culture. But some people don't see it like that, we see it as our rights being taken away, because we can't go visit someone in another village or we don't follow rules because we think it's controlling or either beneath us. We have become so lewd to our own culture that we lost respect to all rules that were set to keep us safe. We become like the white man because we need to have theater popcorn and we need to have our nails done at our favorite nail salon. We have to think about the future and what this sickness could do to us if we don't listen to the past, and are destined to repeat history.

When I was a mush head kitten, we never heard of anything like this sickness before. Sure, they taught us about the different pandemics and epidemics, but they never said that Hopi had suffered a great loss in the past, so we were blind to that past and never prepared for the now-future. Of course, no one had any idea how big this new sickness would be, but still, we should have taught ourselves that we can't completely be safe from harm. We just have to prepare ourselves so we don't become written words in the history books.

I know, by now, most Hopis are tired of hearing the same news about this Coronavirus thing and we are sick of seeing the posted "numbers" on Facebook about how many are sick on the Hopi reservation. But, this just to inform people about this sickness and that it's still here on the Hopi reservation and can wreak havoc if cautions are not respected and used to stay healthy.

Sure, some of us will say "I don't feel sick" or "I'm not sick" so let me go to the lake so I can fish on Memorial Day weekend with hundreds of "not sick humans" and I know some of you did that over that weekend...Facebook don't lie.

But of course, you can't stay home because you feel that you're not a risk to anyone. Sure we can be like a white man for a day and take all the risks and bring it all back to the reservation. Then maybe we'll start paying attention to the "numbers" posted on Facebook as they start to increase. But go ahead and live your luxuries for a day like we have been doing in the recent past.

In my last article, I said that this sickness might be just a warning so we can better prepare ourselves for something worse to come. It seems to me that we as Hopi people and Hopi cats are not "spiritual" anymore because we like our holidays and we like fishing, then we post pictures on social media saying, "Was a great weekend, good to get off the Rez." So now, we don't believe in the Great Spirit anymore. Now we believe in the 2-for-1 deals at our favorite clothing outlet and how many drive-by drinks we have to buy in order to get a free coffee drink, but I digress.

So, my advice to you is that we can keep our luxuries and keep telling ourselves that we don't need to listen to any rules, because we were never given a curfew before. Or we could start to understand that this sickness could only be a test to what might come. Don't let white man's luxuries entice you away from your true Hopi-ness. I know this "lockdown" is a drag...but hey look at this way, we get to save money by eating all the green veggies that we were given, and when things get back to a somewhat "normal" stage in the year 2020, we can all go fishing and sing "till the cows come home"...or whatever the white man says.

Critical Care Response Team Will Further Enhance Patient Care Across the Indian Health Service

Indian Health Services
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: (301) 443-3593, newsroom@ihs.gov

Today, the Indian Health Service is announcing that it is forming a Critical Care Response Team of expert physicians, registered nurses, and other health-care professionals on an as needed basis to provide urgent lifesaving medical care to COVID-19 patients admitted to IHS or tribal hospitals.

These expert medical professionals will conduct hands-on clinical education while treating patients, expanding capacity and training the frontline health care professionals on the most current information for the management of COVID-19 patients, and other critically ill patients. In the event a hospital or other medical location needs additional resources, the critical care response team can be mobilized and at the bedside of the patient within 24-48 hours notice.

“A critical care response team will further enhance patient care across the Indian health system,” said IHS Director Rear Adm. Michael D. Weahkee. “This is a positive step in providing access to quality critical health care services, strengthening organizational capacity, improving operations and giving additional support to our frontline health care workers. Additional expert critical care support will assist IHS hospitals during a crisis and provide our most vulnerable patients the greatest chance of survival.”

The IHS is responding to COVID-19 with an all hands on deck approach to address the potential surge in hospitalized and critically ill patients. For instance, the IHS is working to rapidly deploy telehealth services as needed to allow critical care consultation for patients managed in an IHS intensive care unit, and for critically ill patients receiving care at hospitals before they transfer to a higher level of care. The IHS also continues to work with tribal, state and local partners to operate alternate care sites using existing buildings for patients who have been transferred from the hospital but still require some level of medical care. These patients may require oxygen and medications but do not require extensive nursing care or assistance with activities of daily living.

The IHS received over $2.4 billion in new funding to provide resources that will support a wide range of COVID-19 response activities across the Indian health system. The critical care response team will be staffed through a 12-month contract awarded to Fire Creek Services Company, a Native-owned small business, which is part of All Native Group.

The IHS, an agency in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services provides a comprehensive health service delivery system for approximately 2.6 million American Indians and Alaska Natives who belong to 574 federally recognized tribes in 37 states. Follow the agency via social media on Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn.

COVID-19 Emergency Response – June 1, 2020 Report

By: Royce Jenkins, DHHS Director

Kykotsmovi, Ariz. – June 1, 2020 — Protests sparked by the mishandling of the George Floyd incident in Minnesota last week continued to intensify across the United States, as protesters broke local curfews to voice frustration over policing in America. Meanwhile, the country is in the middle of a pandemic with a number of COVID-19 cases still increasing throughout Arizona. Here in our state, Governor Doug Ducey imposed a weeklong, statewide curfew after another night of intense protests with random looting in places like Phoenix, Scottsdale and Tucson.

The Hopi-Tewa community will continue to abide by the Hopi Tribe’s stay at home directives in response to COVID-19, even as the rest of Arizona generates more movements guided by the new curfew hours from 8:00 p.m. to 5:00 a.m. for the next week. Please continue to protect your community and family, especially during the brief moments when picking up essential items in the surrounding towns and cities.

Here is a quick overview of the COVID-19 statistics on a national, state, and local level:

As of this date – June 1, 2020, 2020

The United States now has over 1.7 million confirmed positive cases with 26, 177 new cases and over 104,396 deaths reported.

Over 20,123 confirmed positive cases now exist in Arizona. Of those, close to 1,873 are in Navajo County alone.

The Hopi Health Care Center has tested over 1,286 patients to this date. Over 97 of those tests at Hopi Health Care Center came back positive. 40 of those patients are from the Hopi Tribe.

Of those positive tests, a handful are right here on Hopi – in our villages. The information below provides a glimpse of the current numbers in those respective villages.

40 of the 97 patients total are members of the Hopi Tribe or approximately 41%.

Prevention:

Watch for symptoms. People with COVID-19 have had a wide range of symptoms reported – ranging from mild symptoms to severe illness.

Symptoms may appear 2-14 days after exposure to the virus. People with these symptoms or combinations of symptoms may have COVID-19:

- Cough
- Shortness of breath or difficulty breathing
- Or at least two of these symptoms:
- Fever
- Chills
- Repeated shaking with chills
- Muscle pain
- Headache
- Sore throat
- New loss of taste or smell

Children have similar symptoms to adults and generally have mild illness.

This list is not all inclusive. Please consult your medical provider for any other symptoms that are severe or concerning to you.

Education: School Resources - Be “Wise & Ready”

Community preparedness is the ability of communities to prepare for, withstand, and recover - in both short and long terms - from disasters, and emergency incidents that impact the health of the public. This includes the engagement and participation in preparedness activities that works to build shared capabilities across the whole community. For Schools this means children, families, teachers and administrators. Promoting awareness on how to prevent, respond to, and recover from a public health incident that may occur in your community or involve impacts from incidents that may have occurred in distant communities.

Before a disaster strikes, prepare together as a school as a community to be “Wise and Ready”. Visit the “Wise and Ready” resource page will help you be better prepared for an emergency, promote an awareness of and access to medical and mental/behavioral health to protect the community’s health and address functional and access needs.

Update from Department of Health and Human Services

The Hopi Health Care Center wishes to thank all community members, village leadership, and Hopi Tribal Leadership for their participation in the community testing. Hopi Health Care Center is also aware that there is a longer than usual delay in receiving COVID-19 test results. The entire state of Arizona has been doing “Blitz Testing” which has contributed to a large workload for state labs processing COVID-19 tests. As Hopi Health Center receives results, teams of staff will immediately contact individuals of their result. Thank you for your understanding and patience during the Hopi Criteria Based Community Testing process.
